The chief topic of conversation on campus this week has been concerning Premier Ramsay MacDonald. No one person whom we can recall in our stay in the University has "taken" quite so well as the Prime Minister. On every side one hears praise for his sincerity, and those who heard him speak are the envy of their fellows.

Out of the maze of interesting stories told about the convocation is one to the effect that Provost William Allen Wilbur could not command sufficient dignity to convince the dusky guardian of the door at Memorial Continental Hall that he was entitled to entrance before the hoi poloi.

An usher, we hear, did not immediately recognize Ishbel MacDonald when she presented her card of admission, and was reluctant to admit her to the reserved section. On being informed who his distinguished "customer" was, the abashed usher rushed to Miss MacDonald, exclaiming, "Lady, you can have any seat you want!"

Still, it was a very dignified assemblage, and as one of our friends put it, "All 401 of Washington's Four Hundred were there." We felt out of place in our business suit as we perched precariously on the edge of a balcony seat.

Ex-service men in the University will feel at home now that one of the few houses on Twentieth Street not owned by George Washington, has erected a barbed wire back fence. Pity the lonely wanderer who strolls across the back campus on a dark night!

A lot of excitement was created last week when some man of evident foreign extraction appeared before the late Woodhull Administration Building (now Building F) and displayed his supply of rugs and tapestries on the concrete and lawn. A crowd of at least fifty soon gathered, but so far as can be learned, no purchases were made.

Students of the University are taking a commendable attitude toward members of the present varsity team. Despite the loss of two consecutive contests, and the likelihood that several more will result in defeats this year, the students generally are passing around compliments for this year's varsity, which will either graduate this June or be relegated to the bench as the more experienced men on the freshman squad move up next fall. For indeed, many of the varsity team this year have never played football prior to this year.

Crowds have been large at the games, too. This thing called school spirit seems to be very much present with us.

If our freshmen continue to mistreat other freshmen teams that are accustomed to winning over George Washington, Coach Pixley may find it hard to work out a schedule for next year unless he schedules Georgia, Southern California, Notre Dame, and a few other small schools.

That freshman victory over Georgetown is merely a forecast of better things to come, and an omen that presages well for University teams under the new policy. Teams that are winning over George Washington this year had better frame the scores, for it will be many years before they can repeat.

That's our prophecy, and you can take it or leave it.

See where the Troubadours are taking care of an honorary member, some alumni, and the present leaders in a club. Wonder if we're going to get a bid as honorary press agent, or something? Still, we'd rather have a complimentary ticket to "Gypsy in Egypt," if they're going to be passed about.

"Hockey practice is now in full swing," we read. And the football situation is up in the air, and gool is on the rocks, and—oh, what's the use?

Just who got whom will be revealed in the next issue of this scandal sheet when Neophytes will be announced. There will be the usual chorus of "oh's" and "ah's" and "Why didn't you get that man?" and "How in the world did they get so many?"

And the University will go on just the same.

What are these Kaffee Klatches, and are they subject to rush rules promulgated by the Panhellenic or Interfraternity Councils and if so, why not?

It is rumored that Jerry Sickler did not lead the cheering at the American U. game because he over slept. Nine thirty, according to Jerry, is no time to hold a game, particularly since Saturday morning follows Friday night.

Strange we haven't had any more truth parties around school, since George had to talk too much.

COLONIAL CUBS WHIP G. U. FROSH ON HILLTOP, 20-0

Wells, Krimelmeyer, Bagrannoff And Sturdevant Star in Victory of Year

Next Game To Be Played At Westminister This Saturday With W. Maryland Yearlings

The George Washington Freshmen stepped off to a flying start last Friday when they drubbed the Yearling aggregation of Georgetown University 20-0 at the Hilltop stadium. A crowd of approximately 1,500 persons witnessed the triumphant march of the Buff and Blue cubs.

Coach Farrington's proteges completely outclassed their opponents. A varied attack of runs, bucks, and passes culminated in three touchdowns, and two of the three tries for points after touchdown were successful.

But for the spirited defensive play of the Hilltoppers at critical moments and the frequent offside penalties upon the G. W. yearlings, the Colonial rookies would have won by an even larger score.

Ottis Krimelmeyer furnished the ultra-dramatic thrill of the day when he grabbed the opening kickoff and galloped 85 yards to the Georgetown goal. A massed screen interference cleared the intended tacklers and Krimelmeyer, after taking the ball near the sideline, cut back into the center of the field and outran the safety man to the goal. His try for the extra point was blocked.

G. W. took the ball deep into Georgetown territory on several occasions, but lacked the final punch to score. However, late in the second quarter, Lytle Sturdevant took a pass from Billy Wells and went unhampered to a touchdown.

Wells, G. W. quarterback, did things up in stellar fashion. Throwing a total of eight passes, five of which were completed for an average of 25 yards, and two resulting in touchdowns, he was easily the most outstanding performer of the day. Cameron snared the other pass to tally. "Jelly" White and Cameron placed kicked to give G. W. their full quota after touchdown.

TROUBADOUR TRYOUTS FOR CAST THURSDAY

Honorary Troubadour Club Formed to Reward Meritorious Service

Music tryouts for the Troubadour production are scheduled to be held at 8 o'clock Thursday evening, October 17, in the gymnasium. Everyone contesting in the tryouts is required to bring his own music.

Chorus tryouts have nearly reached completion. Rehearsals are being held regularly in Corcoran Hall under the direction of Julia Denning.

To reward several years of meritorious service, and encourage future interest in the Troubadours, an honorary club has been formed, including honorary and charter members and an Alumni Council.

The members are as follows: Dr. Bolwell, honorary; Alumni Council: Sterry Waterman, Larry Parker, Elmer Brown, Edward Moulton, Ruth Peters, Fern Henninger, Mary Virginia Leckie and Peggy Parker; charter members: Bill Jamison, musical director for the current show; Julia Denning, dancing director; Frank Westbrook, and Mildred Burnham, writers of the script for this year's production; Sock Kennedy, Katherine Boykin, Dan Beattie, and Ted Chapin.

BOXING

Candidates for the boxing team will report to Coach "Bucky" Green immediately. Workouts are now under way every day at the Gym between 2 and 5 p. m.

Before a cosmopolitan audience which included diplomats from a score of countries, cabinet officers, members of Congress, and other high Government officials, as well as the faculty and graduating class of the University and their guests, President Cloyd Heck Marvin, at the annual Fall Convocation held in Memorial Continental Hall last Wednesday, conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws on a plain, yet distinguished man from a foreign nation—a man whose sole purpose in visiting American shores was "To promote the cause of peace in the world." That man, who accepted his first collegiate degree with obvious emotion in his voice, was the Right Honorable James Ramsay MacDonald, Prime Minister of Great Britain.

The exercises incident to the conferring of the degree began with the formation of the colorful academic procession in the Pan-American Union Building. The 84 students who had completed their academic work during the recent Summer Sessions headed the column, marching in double file following the marshal. After them came the faculty, also marching two by two.

Sir Esme Howard Marches

Behind the faculty, slowly pacing along between the twin lanes of police that lined the way from the Pan-American Union Building to Memorial Continental Hall, came the Prime Minister and President Marvin, side by side. Just behind them walked Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador, and Provost William Allen Wilbur. Then came the Trustees of the University, and the Deans.

To the stately strains of "Pomp and Circumstance," played by the United States Navy Band Orchestra, the white-robed lines filed down the aisle to their places in the auditorium or on the stage. A momentary pause, and the orchestra played "God Save the King."

The Reverend Joseph Richard Sizoo, D. D., gave the invocation.

"Let Them Be Conferred"

Candidates for degrees were presented by the Provost, and the President responded, with a terse, "Let them be conferred."

"You have spent some years in living under rigid self-discipline," continued the President. "Now you are to leave the halls where special counsel is constantly at your command. In the years spent here you have learned the challenges of work and the satisfactions of the meticulously completed tasks. As you take up your activities of life outside of the University, think of life's satisfactions as growing out of self-assigned work. Such service will require the same type of habitual action as you have known in the competition here. You have learned that virtuous habits are not gained by rote nor exercised automatically. Conscious discriminating effort is the price paid for true action in life. Unless your activities have enabled your mind you may be only a blind yet obvious parasite. The hall marks of an educated man are critical intelligence, sanity of thought, nobility of spirit, willingness to serve. Let such discipline as these continue to command, that each of you may be counted among the benefactors of the country and of the human race."

Then slightly turning, the President intoned, "James Ramsay MacDonald."

Audience Rises

The Prime Minister arose, and stood with his head slightly bowed, his hands clasped in front of him, as the audience also stood and applauded.

"James Ramsay MacDonald," the President repeated. "Prime Minister of Great Britain, social leader whose spiritual fervor and quiet will have wrought, through periods of stress, fine courage, steadfast understanding of a service for public weal, and rugged sympathy for men; statesman gifted to establish the ideal as reality and make it an enlightening power in the lives of men and of nations; neighbor and envoy of understanding between kindred peoples."

The Prime Minister was then given his diploma symbolic of his degree, and the appropriate academic hood was placed over his gown. He stood for a moment seemingly oblivious to the applause, and then began simply:

Interrupted by Applause

"In standing before you for the first time in these very distinguished robes, which I take it, embody the appreciation of this University for all (Continued on page 2)

WASHINGTON, D. C., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1929

REAL NERVE

That The George Washington University is to see greater athletics in the years to come is clearly shown by the activities of the men in charge of the Physical Education Department. The full-hearted cooperation and harmony between Director Pixlee and the administration is a sign that the steps now taken and the steady progress being made is not a thing of the moment, but rather a condition which will yield to continued and permanent growth.

All this points to the future and it is to the future that we look with a great deal of happy anticipation. But let us not overlook the present. While the freshmen ride easily from one victory to the other, with all things in their favor, the varsity eleven will, without doubt, go down in repeated defeat. In the case of the varsity it can be said that few things are to their advantage.

This is the situation which confronts the University at the outset of the present athletic season: the freshmen find themselves in an enviable position, while the varsity men have nothing for which to be glad.

The student body fully realizes this condition, and it will be interesting to see whether the individual students of the University's large enrollment will be able to lose as gracefully with the varsity as they will win joyfully with the freshmen.

To anyone who ever took part in any competition it is well known that it is much easier to win than it is to lose; it takes more nerve to remain in competition when the odds against winning are great than when the going is easy. Perhaps the greatest test of manhood and sportsmanship is the test which is put to a team when it knows that it is hopelessly outclassed, and the proof of character lies in offering the best at all times even though the best is not enough to win.

It may be said that The George Washington University football eleven lacks weight and experience, but no man can ever say that it lacks what, in its boldest form, is known as "guts." These few men, light and inexperienced, but game, who give all they have to uphold the honor of the University have a greater right to admiration than a like group of men who find that they are on equal or better than equal terms with the opposition.

A football team is seldom "yellow," but a student body is often found to be of mud color through and through. It takes no nerve to cheer until the final whistle when a team is coming through with victory after victory, but to stand behind a team which wins but few games and can look forward to few victories, requires a great deal of courage; a moral courage which is often more difficult to summon than physical courage in the face of danger.

This year will be a supreme test for The George Washington University student body, and the outcome is being watched with a great deal of interest. It will be interesting to see whether the representative students will display as much pluck in supporting the football team as the team is weekly displaying in a grand effort to give their best for the Buff and Blue.

It would not be too much to say that a student body which can not fully support a weak athletic team has no right to enjoy a strong one. No great character was ever developed in cases where all things desired were provided upon mere request, and where no difficulties ever presented themselves.

We have confidence that the members of The George Washington University, strong in learning and old in traditions, will this year, above all others, prove their worth by displaying its characteristic nerve in fighting just as hard for the name of The George Washington University as the eleven men on the field who wear the moleskin with the University's colors.

WHILE everybody is waiting for the announcement of the Neophyte list next week, social life at G. W. is still carried on by the weekly dollar dances, sponsored by the Colonial Club. Although the girls and some of the boys attend Navy's or Georgetown's games, they always support George Washington dances. The Navy-Notre Dame took the major toll of the co-eds' time last Saturday, but everyone was back at the dance at Corcoran Hall that night for celebration?

Among the crowd which attended the all-important clash in Baltimore on Saturday were, Julia Denning, Bob Barnes, Betsy Booth, Carolyn Brash, Arline Spencer, Jean Miles, Hazel Peterson, Cal Lacey, Jerry Free, Libby Baltz, Bob Vesey, Alice Walford, Tommie Littlepage, Bob Manderford, Louise Spratt, John Robleson, Betty Brandenburg, Francis Brandenburg, Carolyn Jackson, Betty Waller, Smith Brookhart, Helen Walker, Pres Gatzley, Mary Detwiler, Edith McCoy, Barbara Miller, Margaret Ferguson and Kitty Slaughter.

DEGREE PRESENTED TO BRITISH PRIME MINISTER BY GEORGE WASHINGTON

those who are trying to promote the cause of peace in the world"—here he was interrupted by applause—"I regret very much," he continued, "that I have been unable to accept various other invitations from universities to join them in their membership. But I take it, Mr. President, that those of you who are responsible for the conduct of this distinguished University will allow me to say that I regard you not only as yourselves, but as representatives of the other great educational institutions of the United States.

"I have been asked to say something to you. What can I say?" he pleaded with a winning sincerity. "I never attended a University, unfortunately. I have been, as I understand so many of you here are, people who have had to acquire your educational attainments in your spare hours, and after having undergone the labor that you find necessary for the earning of your daily bread."

Education by Saving

The speaker lowered his voice. "My friends, my colleagues in academic circles here," he went on, "I hope you will never forget that the finest education is the education that has been acquired by daily labor, by saving, not so much money as saving what is still more precious—time and opportunity. It is those moments that pass by us, almost unconsidered, that should be used in attaining to that great satisfaction of mind, that peace of conscience, which comes from making the very best of the opportunities that God has implanted in our midst.

"One word I should like to say to you, and one word only. You never can acquire anything in this world without purchasing it; purchasing it by your own efforts, your own work, your own sacrifice. You may attain high office in the state. It will never come to you as a gift. You may attain to high position in business. It will never come to you as the mapna fell upon the children of Israel wandering in the desert. Your names may be emblazoned in the newspapers of your country, and other similar distinctions may come to you, but do remember that the way to that is a hard road, and that only men and women of untiring courage and stability can attain to it.

Real Education

"Let us all value education," he asserted. "Let us all appreciate it as something more than mere knowledge, because after all, knowledge is a sort of outward ornament. The education that is real is the education that means our being of finer temper, more adaptable, more flexible. Let us assimilate knowledge until it becomes ourselves, showing itself in character, reliability, straightforwardness.

"That is the end of education, and the very first moment of the honor you have conferred upon me by making me one of your members. I take the opportunity in these few sentences, of embodying to you all the experience I have had in a very varied and in a very—his voice broke as he continued—"I was going to say 'up and down' life. Remember, when you have had honors, you have to bear them, and the bearing of them entails sacrifice and burdens upon you.

Appreciation Expressed

"Mr. President, I want to express again my appreciation of the honor which has been conferred upon me." The orchestra played "The Star Spangled Banner," and the Reverend Augustus Tabor Murray, Ph. D., President Hoover's pastor in California, professor of classics at Stanford University, and here on leave as pastor of the Friends' Meeting House which President Hoover attends, pronounced the benediction. The procession then left the hall.

The exercises were cut in length from 45 minutes, as planned, to 25 minutes, because of conflicting engagements. During the exercises, Ishbel MacDonald, daughter of the Prime Minister, together with Lady Isabella Howard, sat in inconspicuous seats on the side of the auditorium.

Brilliant Gathering

BUFF AND BLUE COLONIALS FALL TO AMERICAN U.

Targee, LaFavre, and Olsen Are Outstanding For Winning Eagles

SAFETY AND TOUCHDOWN ARE GAME'S ONLY SCORE

Blackie Hoffman Plays Brilliantly For G. W. U. In Gaining Ground In Defeat

For the first time, since the two teams began meeting on the gridiron, the American University Eagles were returned the victors over the George Washington football team by a score of 8-0.

The game was played Saturday morning at the Eastern High School Stadium before an enthusiastic gathering of about four thousand persons, composed for the most part of American University supporters. The weather was much too warm for football and naturally enough the heat took its toll of the players, but nevertheless substitutions were not numerous. The contest was listless and, slow throughout, and there was a noted absence of anything spectacular. The only scores of the game were a safety, scored in the first period and a touchdown registered shortly after the opening of the last quarter.

Colonials Outclassed

The Colonials, though playing hard and fighting desperately during the entire game, were completely outclassed, outgeneraled, and outplayed by a fast, well-drilled aggregation. A large share of the glory should go to Coach Walter Young, who is enjoying singular success in his first year at the Wesley Heights Institution.

In Orville Targee, Jack LaFavre, and Red Olsen, the Eagles possess three backs of unusual ability. Targee, in the game but a short while, skirted the ends time after time for gains ranging as high as 25 yards. He is a shifty runner who gets the utmost out of his remarkable speed. His successor, Olsen, carried on after Targee left the game by circling the ends for repeated gains. LaFavre did the greater part of the line smashing for the Methodists and could usually be counted on to achieve the needed yardage.

Blackie Hoffman was the outstanding player on the Hatchettes squad. At one time late in the game, he made three successive first downs on line rushes practically unaided. In Berkowitz and Gates he had a pair of running mates, who helped him materially. The George Washington line was like a sieve and ground gaining had to be achieved by the backs alone.

A clear indication of how completely the Colonials were outplayed can be seen from the fact that the Eagles made 16 first downs to 6 for the down-town gridmen.

Kick Blocked

The safety came midway in the initial period. Clapper fell upon an American fumble on his own five-yard line and after Hoffman had gained but a yard through center, McGrew essayed to kick from behind his own goal line. The kick was blocked and the ball bounded out of bounds, where Johnson, the A-U center, fell on the ball for the two-pointer.

The touchdown was registered in the fourth quarter when the Eagles got the pigskin on G. W.'s 33-yard line. Olson and LaFavre took the ball on alternate rushes to the one-foot line, where Jack LaFavre pushed it across. His attempt at a placement kick fell short and the score remained 8-0 for the remainder of the game.

Though the line appeared weak for the most part, the loyal followers of the Colonial gridmen saw a great deal of improvement in the play of the ends, McGrew and Francis. They proved themselves clever in the art of boxing in their opponents on defense, while their play on attack was equally effective.

The first period was tame enough except for the safety scored by the Methodists. The leading factor in their progress toward the Hatchettes goal was a 25-yard end run by Targee. This placed the pigskin on the 25-yard line. Jack LaFavre then personally accounted for another first down when he made 11 yards on three successive line smashes, after which Targee went around end again for the third first down, which placed the ball on the 5-yard line. Each team fumbled at this point and McGrew was forced to punt from behind his own goal line, resulting in the first score.

The second period was no more spectacular than the first. Olsen, who was sent into the game as a substitute for Targee, proved himself to be as good a ground gainer as the man he replaced, and he circled the ends repeatedly for good gains.

WOMEN'S RIFLE HOLDS MEETING

Rifle Team Has Been Undefeated For Six Years; Plans For Season

THREE POSITIONS OPEN

Dr. Walter Stokes, Service World's Champion, to Continue as Coach

George Washington's championship women's rifle team, which has been for six years undefeated, is to start practicing for what it hopes will be another successful season.

The first meeting of the year will be held Thursday, October 17, in C. H. 17, at 12:15. Underclassmen particularly are urged to attend, for the opportunity of placing on the team is the best in years. There are three open berths on the varsity squad and only four of last year's beginners are back. Later in the season, the most promising of the new girls will be coached by varsity.

The Buff and Blue team has made a name for itself in the past. For three consecutive years it has won the National Rifle Association Inter-Collegiate championship and the Dot and Circle championship trophy.

Rifle will be under the general supervision of Dr. Walter Stokes, service world's champion, who has coached the women's rifle team since its beginning at the University.

Betty Clark, this year's coach, shot on varsity for three years, and acted as student coach with Helen Prentiss last year as well as shooting one of the highest scores.

Roberta Wright, captain, has been a member of the varsity team for the past two years. She was also captain of the Central High School team.

Arlene Spencer, manager, has also been on the varsity team for the past two seasons, turning in good scores.

The other members of the varsity team who are back this year are veteran shooters: India Belle Corea, Naomi Crumley, Gene Cuvillier, Marjory Leighey, and Verna Parsons.

Boxing Instruction Is Open To College Men

Coach Green Offers Training In Boxing Every Afternoon From 2 to 5

Training and instruction in boxing are to be offered to University men every afternoon from 2:00 to 5:00 o'clock in the Gymnasium, under the direction of Coach Green. Evening classes twice a week are being arranged for night students.

By a series of elimination bouts, it is the expectation of Coach Green to develop a team equal to the standards of intercollegiate boxing.

Third session and the Hatchette offensive began to make itself felt. However, this spurt that occurred in the first part of the stanza, was short-lived and shortly before the close of the period the Eagles started a march that would not be denied.

Almost immediately after the final session got under way, the Methodists with LaFavre and Olsen showing the way, went across the line for the only touchdown of the fray. After receiving the kick-off, Blackie Hoffman, Colonial luminary, made three successive first downs, practically by himself, on line rushes. This final effort failed to net the Pixlee aggregation anything.

G. W. VARSITY TO TACKLE DICKINSON

First Trip of Season Expected To Arouse New Hopes In Team

TACKLES CHIEF WORRY

Same Line-up As Last Week Probably To Be Used At Start

The Colonial varsity will make their third bid for a victory next Saturday, when they meet Dickinson gridmen on the latter's home field. It will be the first trip of the season for the Hatchettes and with the sting of two defeats in as many games in their eyes they will fight anew to break into the winning column.

Comparatively little is known concerning the opposition to be encountered. Franklin and Marshall defeated Dickinson 32-0, but it must be remembered that Pennsylvania won over F. and M. by a score of only 7-0.

The same noteworthy improvement found in last Saturday's game with American University may be expected next week and with Coach Connaughton working night and day on the line, especially with the tackles, and Coach Walsh working on the ends and backfield, and the passes perfected there should be a victory for the Colonials.

The same line-up that started the game last Saturday may be expected to start again. The general improvement of the team and the brilliant playing of Hoffman, Burkowitz, Francis and McGrew confirm this. The latter two have played exceptionally well, boxing in the plays and making most of the tackles. Both are adept at catching forward passes and McGrew, so far, has done all of the kicking.

Most of the credit for yardage must go to Sam Burkowitz, quarterback, and Blackie Hoffman, fullback. In the American University game they repeatedly plunged the line for 5 or 10 yards gain, and had they continued doing so instead of turning to passes, they would, undoubtedly have scored. Continued building around these four men should give us a victory next Saturday at Carlyle.

G. W. line-up: McGrew, end; Francis, end; Eberly, tackle; Frazier, tackle; Edgebert, guard; Veazey, guard; Boyle, center; Hoffman, fullback; Burkowitz, quarterback; Billisoly, halfback; and Clements, halfback.

Hockey Practice Is Now In Full Swing

Varsity Games Scheduled to Get Under Way Early in November

Varsity and class hockey practices are in full swing with approximately 30 girls reporting. This number is expected to increase, as some of the Freshmen and Sophomores, now receiving training for the first time, advance.

Interclass games are slated to begin some time near the end of the month. It is expected that more Juniors and Seniors will turn out before this time.

Varsity games will probably begin on or about November 7. The schedule will be shorter than usual this year, as American University is competing with outside colleges this season. G. W. has heretofore played two games a season with American.

Tobacco's at its best... in a pipe

MEN'S preference for a man's smoke—the pipe—is plenty positive. But do you know why? We'll tell you.

First, pipe tobacco's different—for instance, Edgeworth. Second, tobacco smolders as it should in a pipe. And third, these mean you get more satisfaction—greater relish of the good old savory burley, soothing fullness of rich smoke.

There's even a fourth reason: you like good company. The pipe-smoking brotherhood is that.

Tobacco's at its best in a pipe. It gets a chance to be itself there—to loosen up as it comes to life, to expand and take in air and glow. Only the choicest leaves get that chance, moreover, for pipes tell the truth about tobacco. Choice leaves, choice blends, and mighty careful handling. Edgeworth comes up through eleven distinct processes before we're willing to pass it on to you.

If you keep on missing all this, that's your fault—for we're waiting to send you your first pipefuls of Edgeworth. See the coupon? Fill it out, get a good pipe and the postman will bring you a neat little glad-to-meet-you packet of good old Edgeworth.

Edgeworth is a careful blend of good tobacco—selected especially for pipe-smoking. Its quality and flavor never change. Buy it anywhere—"Ready Rubbed" and "Plug Slice"—15¢ packet package to pound humidifier tin.

Depew Professor Seeks to Increase
Interest In Debating Among Students

Prof. W. Hayes Yeager, Depew Professor of Public Speaking and Executive Officer of the Department of Public Speaking of the University, is looking forward to the development of a renewed interest in debating and forensic activity at the University during the present school year. As yet it is a little early to venture any statements as to the outlook as tryouts for the various squads have not been announced. However, from the number of interested inquiries received by Professor Yeager it is expected that there will be a number of new faces among the competitors for positions on both the men's and women's teams. There will be an opportunity given for at least six students to qualify for each of the first teams, which will be engaged in debates with some of the foremost universities and colleges of the United States.

This year all forensic activities involving intercollegiate participation, will be under the personal direction of Professor Yeager, assisted by a Faculty Committee composed of Earl C. Arnold, Warren Reed West, Andrew C. Wilkins, alumni member, the president of Delta Sigma Rho, and the president of Columbian Debating Society. Andrew Howard has been elected as manager of the Men's Debate and Louise Feinstein as manager of Women's Debate. Norman Conner was chosen as publicity manager for the present year for the Debate Council.

Yeager Is Ohio Graduate

Prof. W. Hayes Yeager is a graduate of the University of Ohio, where he received the degrees of Bachelor of Arts in 1919, and Master of Arts in 1926. He was Professor of Public Speaking at that institution for four years and was later Professor of Public Speaking and Director of Debating at the University of Illinois. Last year he was acting head of the Department of Public Speaking at the latter institution. While at the University of Illinois in conjunction with Prof. W. P. Sandford, head of the Department of Public Speaking, he organized the Western Conference Debate League, which is composed of the University of Illinois, University of Indiana, Purdue University, University of Michigan, University of Ohio, University of Iowa, University of Minnesota, University of Wisconsin, and Northwestern University.

Under the organization plan of the Conference, four debates are held annually at each university, two in the fall and two in the spring semesters, and each university meets every member of the Conference at least once in two years. Two years ago Illinois defeated the University of Michigan on the question of the United States policy in Central America and last year the University of Ohio was vanquished on the question of the abolition of jury trials in the United States. The verbatim speeches of both these debates were published in the "University Debater's Annual," edited by Edith M. Phelps.

Author of Many Texts

Professor Yeager is the author of a number of authoritative works on the technique of Public Speaking. His latest work, to appear this fall, is "Business Speeches by Business Men." It contains seventy-five excellent addresses given by outstanding leaders in industry and commerce of the United States. Among those included are speeches delivered by Herbert Hoover, while Secretary of Commerce, Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, Frederick S. Ecker, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Ernest M. Smith, executive vice president of the American Automobile Association, and other prominent figures of American commercial life.

"Business and Professional Speaking," in collaboration with Prof. W. P. Sandford, has been published in two editions, one for textbook purposes in one volume, and a three-volume edition for business usage. "Principles of Effective Speaking" was published last year, and is an elementary text for courses in Public Speaking. It has been adopted by many of the leading schools of the country, including the University of Illinois, George Washington University, University of Ohio, Notre Dame University, Miami (Ohio) University, University of Arkansas, University of Georgia, University of Virginia, and Oberlin College. A text for high school use was published in 1927, and is entitled "Successful
